SEE THEM RUN! When The Neighbors Got FedUp.

The Community close to the construction site behind Bonaire Bar this construction has been rumored to be a cremation center for a funeral home. The People in the surrounded area had enough and demanded answers as they went to the construction site demanding answers, as soon as the construction workers saw the commotion, and the upraising of the people they shut down production and left the work site quickly like they were illegals on site running from the law. After numerous protest and petitions NO one is giving them definite answers on whats going on, but the building is going up like they say MONEY TALKS.

Respect Those That Paved The Way For Us All

"George McLaurin, the first black man admitted to the University of Oklahoma in 1948, was forced to sit in a corner far from his white classmates.

But his name remains on the honor roll as one of the three best students of the university. These are his words: "Some colleagues would look at me like I was an animal, no one would give me a word, the teachers seemed like they were not even there for me, nor did they always take my questions when I asked. But I devoted myself so much that afterwards, they began to look for me to give them explanations and to clear their questions."

Don't worry about ur current situation, be determined to make a difference with a loud Success"

""When God honors you, witches and wizards will stay clear"

Book sense VS Common Sense.

We all have seen the street sign crab crossing in Pos Chiquito, however those who put up these signs to create awareness to protect these crabs did not pay attention to what’s causing the most harm is right by the sign, we are talking about that long concrete wall right by these same crabs that have to cross over. There is no way these crabs can pass to go to their destination and end up getting hurt with the confusion. We recommend to raise this wall(hight of a brink) so these protected species can pass under and reach their destination.

We Culture 22nd edition

Saturdays edition of "We Culture" was dedicated to Africa and was split into three parts.

The first part, was a video, focused on the fact that slaves were brought to England to work on plantation. And making use of the services of the slaves, the slave masters became, richer and richer. And that richness is yet to be seen in parts of Great Brittain. During the period of slavery a mixed of race between Black and White took place. And now, years after, Blacks in their tracing back of their ancestors, learned that their father or mother was white. And the last mentioned was also learned from White people to the Black race.

The second part of " We Culture" a video was shown of a young lady born in Nigeria from a middle class family. She talked about her stay, as a student abroad, from which she learned how people from abroad see all people from Africa as poor people. She also brought forward that when she was growing up in Nigeria, her parents hired a Nigerian that is from a poor family. And one day her mother put the her attention that the person concern family is a family in need.

In the last video was informed that France is rich and is maintaining her richness on the expense of African Countries. And African Leaders who rise against this form of exploitation are being killed. Reggae Singer Jefferson Paris, standing next to " We Culture organizer, Sony Richardson, condemned the killing of African Leaders, and encouraged the Leaders to "do not give up the fight".
